Disaster in Japan, One of Greatest in History, Costs Heavily in Lives and Property.

DEAD LIE HEAPED IN STREETS

Tokyo Reduced to Collection of Scattered Villages That Are Still In Flames

YOKOHAMA IS IN RUINS

Tidal Waves Carry Away Part of City as Well as Engulfing Many Adjoining Towns

(By United Press)

The most terrible disaster of Japanese history, one of the greatest the world has ever known, took an unprecedented toll of life and property in the vicinity of Tokio Saturday with approximately 220,000 known to have been killed by earthquakes, fires and floods and some districts were entirely destroyed with incalculable loss.

Latest reports from Osaka, 200 miles from the capital, to which correspondents are reporting by airplane, and from Peking where official radio messages are being intercepted, show the catastrophe to be far worse than at first believed.

Tokyo, seat of Japan's modern civilization, has been reduced to a collection of scattered villages that still are in flames, while the dead lie heaped in the streets or buried beneath great quantities of debris.

Yokohama is in ruins; tidal waves have carried away part of the city, as well as engulfing many adjoining towns.

One island and a populated peninsula are reported to have disappeared altogether with their inhabitants.

The Japanese nation is declared to have been set back a generation and to have lost its position as the fourth world power, through the calamity to its public buildings, institutions, records and finances.

The new government is struggling to function amid the chaos. Premier Yamamoto formed and established his cabinet during the terror that followed the first shock at noon Saturday.

Shortly afterward he was attacked by an assassin, then the building in which he conferred with his ministers was destroyed by flames. Various reports say the prince regent, who fled from his house in the imperial palace when the shock came, is safe; others have him missing.

Relief is being rushed to the stricken.

COUNTY GRAVEL ROAD REPAIR TAX REDUCED

Commissioners Cut Levy For Next Year From Twelve To Eleven Cents Today

APPROVE R. H. HILL'S BOND

The county commissioners, at their regular monthly session today, fixed the county gravel road repair tax at eleven cents for 1924, which is a reduction of one cent as compared with this year.

The county council will meet in annual session Tuesday to appropriate money for funds in 1924 and to fix the county tax and the gravel road bond and interest tax levy in each township. No flood bond tax will be assessed this year as the last of the flood bonds will be paid off this year. It is expected that the county tax, which is sixteen cents this year, will be reduced.

The commissioners today approved the bond of R. H. Hill, state senator, of Carthage, which he gave as a constable of the Horse Thief Detective association, the commissioners having recently ruled that constables should provide bonds.

The board also approved the monthly bills and approved the report of the viewers which was favorable to the vacation of the W. D. Root road in southern Rushville township. The report of the superintendent of the county infirmary was received.

100,000 DEAD IN THE CAPITAL ALONE

(By United Press)

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Wireless dispatches received by the radio corporation of America gave additional details of the Japanese disaster.

A railroad man reached the Iwaki railroad station from Tokio and reported that there were 100,000 dead in the capital alone.

An aviator from Tokoro-Sawa air-dome flew over the devastated area and found that not a house remained standing in Yokohama, Kamakura, Yoko Suka and other coast towns. Kamakura was a popular seaside resort.

New Jap Cabinet Formed

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 3.—Premier Yamamoto has formed his new cabinet, according to a wireless dispatch from Japan received by the radio corporation of America today.

The new cabinet follows: Premier of foreign affairs, Count Gombi Yamamoto; home minister, Shunpei Goto; finance, Junnosuke Inouye, governor of the bank of Japan; war, General Barron Gecchi Panaka; agriculture and commerce, Baron Kenjiro Den, member of the legislative body; naval, Admiral Hayo Takabara, who held the same post when the cabinet was reorganized.

Wholesale Cremations

Peking, Sept. 3.—Due to the shortage of lumber for coffins, the stricken municipalities are turning their burning buildings into huge funeral piers. Wholesale cremations are going on in Tokio and Yokohama, the bodies of hundreds of victims being thrown onto the flaming debris.

Earth Tremors Recorded

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Two very sharp earthquake tremors, apparently about 3,000 miles west of here, were recorded at 4:45 and 4:57 today on the St. Louis seismograph. The tremors started at 4:43 a. m. central standard time and continued until 5:20 a. m.

No News From Legations

Peking, Sept. 3.—(12 noon)—The foreign legations here are still without news of the fate of European and American legations at Tokyo and eight American destroyers have been sent to carry medical relief and establish a chain of wireless communication with the stricken cities.

DULL, DRIZZLING RAIN WELCOMES FAIR CROWD

Morning Downpour Cuts Attendance And Spoils Hopes Of Official Record First Day

NO RAIN INSURANCE TAKEN

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—A dull drizzling rain welcomed state fair visitors today.

Under a sea of bobbing umbrellas, the more eager fairgoers pushed through the turnstiles. Fair officials hoped for a record first-day attendance, but the morning downpour cut the attendance heavily.

Last year, the board paid out large sums of money for rain insurance. But, although it rained on several days nothing was collected because the rain fell during hours when the insurance did not apply.

This year, the fair management decided to carry its own risk on rain.

The fair was officially opened at 9 o'clock Judges immediately started their task of looking over the entries of poultry, cattle, hogs, corn, wheat, and all kinds of agricultural products.

Exhibits in the new $162,000 swine pavilion attracted many. The hog exhibits this year are the largest in the history of the fair.

TO HAVE SECOND OPERATION

F. J. Eubank, who has been taking treatment at the Methodist hospital, in Indianapolis, shows no improvement. He underwent an operation three weeks ago and will have to undergo another one, before he returns to his home, near this city.

SEPTEMBER TERM IS OPENED TODAY

Calling Of Dockets And Making Up Of Issues Principal Business In Circuit Court

TRIAL IS SET FOR TUESDAY

Several Law Suits Are Dismissed On Account Of Settlements Have Been Reached By Parties

Circuit court opened for business this morning for the September term and the usual calling of the dockets and discussing the issues, was the principal business for the first day. Tuesday the jury will be on hand for its first case, in which Olean Snider is charged with grand larceny.

No other business came before the court today excepting the docket cases, and only a couple of hours was required to make out the issues.

Morton Barber of Carthage, accused with malicious trespass, whose trial is this week, filed a motion to quash the indictment and a similar motion was made by Rose C. Small also of Carthage, who is charged with violating the liquor laws, and whose case is set for next Monday.

No action was taken by the court on the two motions. Some of the defendants in criminal cases appeared this morning and furnished new bonds, but no one was arraigned for a plea.

Several cases were dismissed from the docket, when it was being gone over by the court, and in other cases there were many minor petitions and answers filed.

The case of Eliza J. Myers against John Myers, a complaint for divorce, was dismissed because the parties are now residing with each other; the divorce suit of Ada White against Alvin White, also was dismissed and the costs paid.

The complaint of J. L. Cowing, Son and Company against John Wilkinson, a complaint on an account, also was dismissed by the plaintiff, and the costs paid.

Count G. Yamamoto, an admiral, is the new prime minister of Japan, and completed formation of a new cabinet during the earthquake disaster.

BANK ASKS THAT A RECEIVER BE NAMED

Peoples National Sues Jonathan F. And Claudian Fore For $13,500 On A Note

TO FORECLOSE A MORTGAGE

The Peoples National bank, which has been involved as defendants in recent law suits, is plaintiff in a suit filed in the circuit court against Jonathan F. Fore and Claudian Fore, in which the bank demands $13,500 judgment, and asks that a mortgage be foreclosed and a receiver appointed for the defendants.

According to the complaint, the defendant executed their promissory note for the amount of $11,659 on October 31, 1922, and as security gave a mortgage on a farm. The bank alleges that the note and interest became due six months after date, and that it is wholly unpaid.

The bank in its complaint alleges further that the defendants real estate is valued at $18,000 and that there are other notes outstanding, which exceed the amount of the value of the land.

Because of the complicated condition alleged to be involved in the transaction, the plaintiff asks the court to appoint a receiver to manage the affairs, and to give the creditors justice in settling the various claims.

On account of the principal, interest, attorney fees and costs, the bank demands judgment for the amount of $13,500.

PRESENT PLAN TO CONSTITUTION BOND CONSTABLES DAY SEPT. 17

Will H. McMillin, Head Of Horse Thief Detective Association, Arranges For Bonding Co.

TO PROVIDE BONDS AT $2.50

Members Will Be Notified When Bonding House Man Can Be Here—Plans For Kid Supper

Arrangements have been made with a New York bonding house to provide bonds by the wholesale for members of the Rush County Horse Thief Detective association who have been appointed constables by the Rush county board of commissioners and who are required to provide bond of $1,000 each under a ruling of the board, which refused to appoint several members recommended for appointment, a few months ago because they did not give bond.

Will H. McMillin, head of the Rush county association, announced at the regular monthly meeting of the association in the court house Saturday night, that such plans had been made and that a representative of the bonding house would come here and arrange for the bonds at a meeting of the association.

Mr. McMillin stated that the bonding company had agreed to make a special rate of $2.50 for each bond of $1,000, providing the company could write the bonds in whole-sale lots and look to the association for the money. In other words, the association will collect the bond charge from all members who wish to give bond to act as a constable and will pay the bonding company in a lump sum.

Mr. McMillin said that he would probably send return postal cards to all members of the association to learn how many wished to pay the fee of $2.50 for a bond of $1,000.

This does not restrict any member of the association from giving a bond signed by individuals or one provided by some other company. All bonds, however, have to be approved by the commissioners.

The question was raised by Frank Sample, secretary of the association as to whether members could continue to act as constables if they did not give bond, but the association took no action on it. Mr. Sample said that he understood the commissioners could revoke the appointment of any constable if they saw fit.

One member of the association also raised the question of whether constables could not collect fees which the law provides when arrests are made, after they had given bond.

A committee composed of Hal Green, Will McMillin and Frank

Plans Are Under Way For State-wide Observance Of Occasion, According To Present Plans

GOVERNOR TO ISSUE CALL

Several Agencies To Join In Movement For Proper Recognition Of Anniversary

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—Plans are under way for a statewide observance of Constitution Day, September 17, which is the 136th anniversary of the completion of the Constitution of the United States. Arrangements are being made by local officials throughout the state.

"No patriotic anniversary more deserves an appropriate and general observance than does Constitution Day," said Governor McCray, in announcing he will call upon all people of Indiana to pay a proper tribute to the Constitution. The Indiana Republican State Committee also has urged county Republican organizations to join in local programs, and in some communities the day will be marked as a tribute to Warren G. Harding, who was a great constitutionalist. Fredrick E. Shortmeier, in a letter to Governor McCray suggesting general observance of the day, said: "I have learned to know you as an ardent advocate of Constitutional government and I therefore, suggest that in an appropriate way you call upon all of the people of Indiana to pay proper tribute to the immortal Constitution on the anniversary of its completion. It would be a matter of heartfelt gratitude to me if the observance could be statewide, without regard to political affiliation, to the end that the flag might be displayed and that our citizens might

ANSWER TWO ALARMS SUNDAY

Firemen Respond To Calls But Are Unable To Find Any Fires

Firemen answered two alarms Sunday and in each instance the alarms proved to be false. They first were called out Sunday morning at 12:03 to box 142, Eighth and Jackson streets, and then again Sunday night at 11:15 to box 27, located in Cherry Grove on Maple street. The trucks arrived on the scene in quick time, but in each instance there was no one around the box to direct them to the blaze.

An automobile was seen to stop near the box in Cherry Grove last night, and it is believed that joyriders are responsible for the runs.

CROWDS ARE DELAYED BY HEAVY RAIN

Clearing Skies By Noon Brings Throngs For Tri-State Meeting Of Ku Klux Klan

HELD AT OLD FAIR GROUNDS

Immense Quantities Of Food Prepared To Feed People That Are Expected During The Day

RUSH COUNTY KLAN HOST

"The Old Man," High Executive Of Order, And Others, Were To Deliver Addresses

The tri-state meeting of the Ku Klux Klan was getting off to a good start this afternoon, as thousands of Klansmen from sections of Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana were gathering on the old fair grounds, east of this city, to participate in the Labor Day celebration.

The crowd was undaunted by the heavy downpour of rain that began early this morning, and as the skies cleared before noon, the crowd began to increase, and no estimate on the crowd was forthcoming this afternoon.

The local officials had placed the goal at 100,000 or more Klansmen and their families and member of the woman's organization, but the rain no doubt prevented many from coming and would lessen the crowd that was expected.

A program of vaudeville acts was scheduled tonight, and for this reason, it was believed that the parade that had been announced, would not be held, although the committee in charge had secured permission to use the streets for that purpose.

It was stated that the parade would detract from the entertainment and cause a congestion in coming and returning to the fair grounds for the evening program.

"The Old Man" was scheduled to make a speech this afternoon, and it was stated that he was to reach this city from a distant point by using an airplane. "The Old Man", it is inferred, is one of the higher executives of the order, and local officials stated that there would be other state officers here for addresses.

Among the officers higher up in the organization was the chief executive.

JUGO-SLAVIA MAY TAKE HAND IN MOVES

Inform Greek Government She Will Act if Italy Mobilizes Military Forces

IS IN TOUCH WITH ATHENS

Athens, Sept. 3.—Italian warships are laying a mine field around the Dodecanese islands, according to an unconfirmed report today. Concentration of Italian troops also is reported on Leros, largest of the group.

Constantinople, Sept. 3.—Italian torpedo boats at Smyrna have received orders to join the Italian Adriatic fleet immediately.

Athens, Sept. 3.—Jugo-Slavia will take "designated measures" in the event Italy orders mobilization of her military forces or lands troops at Epirus, Belgrade has informed the Greek government, it was made known today.

Belgrade and Athens are in constant touch regarding the Italian moves in the embroglio precipitated by the assassination of five Italian officials in Greece and the Greek refusal to submit to all conditions of Premier Mussolini's ultimatum.

Jugo-Slavia will regard Italian attempts to permanently occupy Corfu, key to the Adriatic, as an invasion of Jugo-Slavia rights, it is understood, as such occupation would amount to bottling up the leading member of the little entente.

NEGRO PROBLEM AT ST. LOUIS

That City, as Well as Others, Are Seeking Solution of Its Negro Immigrants

EXODUS FROM SOUTHLAND

St. Louis Reports 30,000 Settlers in Past Eight Months, Many of Whom Are Penniless

To Keep Negroes South

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 3.—The National Progressive Association of Negroes, designed to help the cotton and lumber industries by keeping the negro in the gulf states through higher wages, better working conditions, reducing hours of work and supplying sanitation and improved homes, has been granted a corporate charter here.

Headquarters of the society are in New Orleans. Negroes of Louisiana are being sought in membership, after which the movement will be extended to other Gulf states, if successful. Sickness and death benefits are provided. The charter provides that the organization cannot become a labor union and that it cannot interfere with labor organization.

By HERBERT LITTLE
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Thirty thousand negroes, settling in St. Louis in the first eight months of 1923, have brought the city face to face with two big problems—that of housing the newcomers and that of halting the invasion of disease.

The menace of disease is being fought by a score of policemen and a special corps meeting every incoming train. Both whites and blacks are vaccinated, unless they already are immunized. Seventeen cases of smallpox in June and July gave the alarm.

Housing is more difficult. There are no new homes being built for the negroes. The 1920 census gave St. Louis a negro population of 70,000 and there were barely enough buildings to house them then.

ported that as many as 12 negroes have been found living in a house intended for one small family.

Landlords are unwilling to make repairs at present high prices of construction. Responsibility for unsanitary conditions rests both upon the landlords and the new arrivals, most of whom are unaccustomed to city living conditions.

Two other problems in connection with the negro from the south have the city leaders worried. One is that of continuing harmonious relations between the two races and the other is the result on the city's political life.

The administration of the city now is Republican and the estimated 15,000 added voters will serve only to strengthen the G. O. P. There were 30,000 negro voters in the last election here, practically all Republicans.

Formation of an inter-racial commission, composed of five whites and five colored men to work out ways of avoiding friction between the two races and to find ways of housing the surplus of colored population, is being urged by leaders in racial affairs. Such a commission in Philadelphia, composed of persons elected by a conference of all civic groups, has operated successfully in adjusting the city to the new negro.

"We are seeking to do in St. Louis in advance of any racial trouble what other large cities, particularly Chicago, have found necessary to do after such trouble," said C. K. Robinson, president of the St. Louis Clarion, leading negro newspaper.

"We know that the housing situation is acute. The negro must find additional residential space. It will be one of the tasks of the commission to determine where the negro can go without causing friction."

Rents in the negro tenement district have mounted from 20 to 40 per cent, according to colored real estate agents.

The negroes who come to St. Louis are from Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas. About 80 per cent of them settle here or in the surrounding industrial district. The other 20 per cent, along with a large number of St. Louis negroes, are moving to steel mills in Youngstown, Ohio; Pittsburgh and Chicago, and automobile factories in Michigan.

Migration into and through here in January was from 200 to 300 a week. It has reached a weekly peak of 2,000.

Most of the negroes are penniless. The biggest factor in the exodus is the high wages offered by industrial plants through labor agencies.

A significant feature of the migration is that a large proportion of the negroes are between 17 and 19 years of age. Many of them are younger boys.

Most of the negroes "tote" their total possessions in a paper bundle. A few carry cheap pasteboard suitcases. Extra numbers of arrivals every Sunday are explained by the fact that the men wait until the end of the week, so they can draw as much of a week's pay as possible for their railroad fare.

"The negroes are going as far north as Duluth," said Matthew Daly, U. S. government farm bureau agent. "Negroes fresh from the south are getting $6 a day in the Duluth and Superior steel mills and in Milwaukee.

"The sort that go far north, however, take their families. Underneath the movement, aside from the certainty of higher pay, seems to be the fact that there is less race feeling in northern cities where negro children attend school with the whites and where white men and negroes in industry work side by side."

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Northern industrial cities registered huge gains in negro population from 1910 to 1920, according to census figures, and this year's migration is expected to double the colored urban population of the north before the end of the year.

In the decade, 1910-1920, St. Louis' increase was 58 per cent; Chicago, 148 per cent; Kansas City, 30 per cent; Pittsburgh, 47 per cent; Gary, Ind., 1,284 per cent. St. Louis' increase in the first eight months of 1923 was estimated at 30,000, or 45 per cent.

A. J. Michael, employment agent, declared that the negroes and Mexicans are the only kinds of labor available now.

"It is a never-ending cry," he said. "We ship the negroes east for railroad work, the steel mill agents lure them away with the lure of higher pay. Hard road construction is taking thousands."

St. Louis steel mills offer $5 to $6 a day. Pittsburgh steel mills promised $8 a day for twelve hours' work. The big eastern railroads are taking hundreds at 40 to 50 cents an hour. Brickyards, scrap-iron men and others are hiring Mexicans and negroes for work in the sun, where no

WRITERS FAVOR AIR CONFERENCE

Leaders in Field of Literature Sanction American Legion's Campaign For World Meet

TO LIMIT AIRCRAFT BUILDING

Julian Street is Only Author Opposed to The Proposal—Booth Tarkington Approves

Indianapolis, Sept. 3.—Leaders in the field of literature have approved the American Legion's campaign for the convocation of an international air disarmament conference, Legion officials announced today.

Booth Tarkington, Hoosier novelist, was one of the first to approve the conference. "Since it was proper to limit naval armament, it is just as necessary to limit air armament—the source from which greatest destruction in the next war may come," he said.

Limitation of air armament would not satisfy Zona Gale, the novelist, who has written that she favors total abolition of all military air equipment.

"Nothing but fear prompts the maintenance of armament at all," she said. "If the United States had the courage to say 'We are done with defensive barbarism,' we might lead the world."

"Five hundred years from now, no achievement of any nation on earth, down all time, will compare for a moment with that of the nation which had the courage to declare itself done with warfare."

"And unless we are done with warfare, five hundred years from now there will be no nation left to record our ruin."

Julian Street registered opposition to the proposal. He believes that American limitation of air forces would result in this country falling even further behind in air development, while other nations would continue to build planes.

In the event of another war, these would be used regardless of international agreements, he said.

CHOLERA INFANTUM FATAL

Mary N. Smith, five months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith, died this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the family home, 824 West Second street, death being caused from cholera infantum, following a few days illness. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the late home, with burial in East Hill cemetery.

meet in their respective communities to pay tribute to the venerable Constitution, to the founding Fathers and to learn more of the fundamentals of our form of government, which for one hundred and thirty-six years has given us the best government known to civilization. It occurs to me, also, that the schools of our State should join in this important observance."

Governor McCray, answering the letter, replied: "I think your suggestion of calling especial attention of Indiana citizens to the fact that Monday, September 17, is the 136th anniversary of the completion of the Constitution of the United States is well taken and I am only too glad to give it the proper publicity."

Benjamin J. Burris, state superintendent of public instruction, said that all schools would observe the day, the arrangements being left with local authorities. In some localities county superintendents are arranging programs for devoting an hour to the study of the Constitution each day of the week, beginning September 17.

To Republicans, Constitution Day has an especial appeal for the Party has always been a staunch force in support of the Constitution. Party leaders in various Indiana counties have informed state headquarters that because of the Party history they find a keen willingness on the part of the people generally to join in the proper observance of the great historical event. In urging local observance of the day, the party leaders have called for a general participation by all citizens to maintain constitutional and orderly good government.

PRESENT PLAN TO BOND CONSTABLES

Sample was elected to arrange for the annual kid supper of the association, which is held every fall. Some doubt was expressed as to whether a place could be found to accommodate such a crowd, as there are now 356 members in good standing and the attendance at such a supper would probably be near 700. The question of a place and date was left to the committee.

Will McMillin was elected delegate and Frank Sample alternate to the annual meeting of the National Horse Thief Detective association, which will be held at Columbus, Ind., Tuesday, October 2. A large attendance from the Rush county association was urged.

The secretary read a letter from Theodore F. Holden, secretary of the New Salem Horse Thief Detective association, inviting local members to a sandwich supper at the New Salem school building Thursday evening, September 17. The speaker will be Col. A. F. Ewbank of Adams, Ind.

Stands For Protection

President Coolidge made it plain soon after his induction into office that he would stand by the policies of the Harding administration, which had stood for a return to normalcy, and the country settled back on its seat with a feeling of relief because business was fearful that any radical change in the attitude of the chief executive might result in a fearful setback.

The president's acts and words during the month that he has been in office have demonstrated further that he expects to follow the course outlined by President Harding. The president has assured the country specifically that he will support the principle of a protective tariff. He has been a life long believer in the "America First" policy. He believes in encouraging American industry and protecting the producer from unjust competition from other nations in which wages and production costs are much lower than in the United States.

Recognizing that there are unsettled conditions throughout most of the world and particularly in Europe, the congress which passed the present tariff law included therein what is known as the "flexibility clause" which authorizes the president, after investigation by the tariff commission, to make changes in tariff rates not exceeding fifty per cent in either direction, when good cause has been shown why the changes should be made. Exponents of the free trade principle looked upon this flexibility provision as designed solely for the purpose of reducing tariffs. Scarcely had the act been placed upon the statute books when they began clamoring for executive action for the reduction of rates. Without any regard whatever for the reasonableness of the import duties imposed and without any consideration of the effect upon American industries, these free-trade agitators wanted a wholesale exercise of the executive power for the reduction of protective tariff duties.

President Harding did not look upon the flexibility clause as bestowing upon him such broad power over the tariff law. He regarded the tariff act as establishing not only the tariff principles which should be observed but the details of import taxes, changeable only where extraordinary circumstances called for action. He did not regard it as his prerogative to undertake a wholesale revision of a tariff law enacted by that branch of the government which the Constitution prescribes shall have the power to enact revenue legislation. It is read-

Dizzy Spells Due To Undigested Food

"Dizziness and faintness after eating show that your food is not digested and is turning into poison and gas. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adierka, expels all poison and gas from BOTH upper and lower bowel. Removes foul, decaying food matter you never thought was in your system which poisoned stomach and made you dizzy and faint. Adierka is EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. Hargrove & Mullin, Druggists.—Advertisements.

ily apparent that President Coolidge takes a similar view.

One clever device of the free traders has been to assume that every move in favor of protection is inspired by politics while every move in the direction of abandonment of protection is actuated by regard for the public welfare. Thus, one periodical, which has an unbroken record against a protective tariff, cites the fact that importers ask for the reduction of the duty on lemons and asserts that "opposition on the part of California fruit growers to any reduction in the duty on lemons has injected a political element into this proposal." As a matter of fact, it did not inject. The sole question is whether the California lemon growers shall be subjected to destructive competition from abroad.

The same free trade propagandist insists that President Coolidge should give carte blanche to the tariff commission which would mean that he abdicate his authority and shirk his responsibility under the flexibility clause of the tariff law. That law did not vest the tariff commission with power to act in the changing of rates. It placed that responsibility solely upon the president, merely requiring the tariff commission to make investigations as to facts.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY

One of the best ball games of the season will occupy the boards at Connersville next Sunday when the Hamilton Krebs line-up against the strengthened Connersville team. In this game, four Rush county boys will take part—Eddie Carter, Windy Morgan and Earl Halterman, with Connersville and Red Yazel, the former Rushville idol, with Hamilton. Yazel is pitching wonderful ball for the Krebs and has not lost a game, his latest feat was defeating Green's Nebraska Indians, at Hamilton last Monday, 5 to 4.

The large barn owned by Merett Ryon, four miles south of New Salem was totally destroyed by fire last night. Fire was discovered in the hay mow about 9:30 o'clock, and had too much headway to be checked.

Miss Harriet Vredenburg returned yesterday from a visit with Misses Jennie Powell and Zelma Cox at Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pearsey of East Tenth street entertained at dinner on Wednesday several of the well known aged ladies of Rushville: Mrs. Peggy Crawford, age 91; Mrs. Susan Tingley, age 85; Aunt Nama Meredith, age 80; Mrs. Emmeline Tucker, of St. Louis, Mo., age 78, and Mrs. Mary Webb, age 77. Mrs. Fanny Ridenbaugh and Mrs. Alice Bainbridge were also present.

Miss Celia Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Barrett of East Tenth street and Mr. Ross Schrader were united in marriage last night.

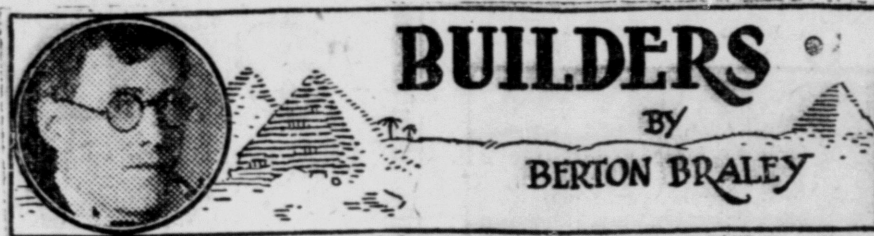

The ladies Missionary Society of the Christian church met with Mrs. B. L. McFarlan yesterday afternoon. Mrs. William Alexander led in devotion; Mrs. William Horton read an excellent paper on "Our Oriental Work on the Pacific Coast." Miss Louise Manzy furnished special music and Miss Mary Coleman gave an instructive talk about the Filipino women.

Charles Brown, conductor on the I. & C. is off duty on account of sickness.

Word has been received from Dr. J. C. Sexton, who has been at Hamburg, Germany, for several days that he is having a very enjoyable trip.

Oh, Cheops was a Pharaoh who built a pyramid
(Or rather, stole the credit for what his workmen did,
The carpenters and masons, and other men of skill,
Who built the pyramids so well that they are standing still.)

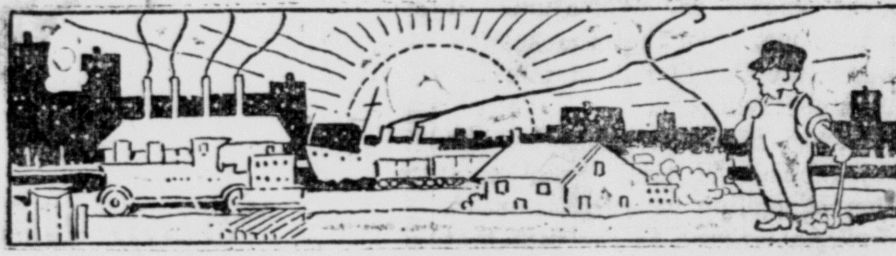

Nebuchadnezzar had a queen—a queen in Babylon,
And she grew weary of the plains her vision rested on.
"Oh, give me hills to gaze upon," she whispered to the king;
Nebuchadnezzar answered her, "I'll do that little thing."

Upon tremendous arches that clamored to the sky
He laid out hanging gardens to glad his consort's eye.
(Nebuchadnezzar built them—or thus the stories read,
But it was cunning workmen who really did the deed.)

The sultans and the emperors, since history began,
Have given little credit to the common workman,
And yet their tombs and palaces, their temples and their halls,
Were built by common workmen in grimy overalls.

We aim to get no credit that isn't rightly ours,
We hand it to the architects who plan the lofty towers,
We slip it to the engineers who use their hands and brain
Designing bridges, ships and tools that stand each stress and strain.

But granite doesn't carve itself, and steel won't jump in place,
And tools don't simply operate by some supernatural grace.
No, that's where we collaborate, and we desire to claim
An honest share of glory for the doing of the same!

"Red" Yazel Back In Old-Time
Form: When He Defeats New Salem Here Sunday

LOCAL TEAM PLAYS GOOD BALL

"Red" Yazel appeared back in old league style Sunday when he pitched the Rushville baseball club to a no-hit and no-run game over New Salem, and in which Rushville came out with four points, after collecting 9 hits off Croddy.

The local team played good ball at all times, and in one inning bunched hits and made three of their tallies. Croddy pitched good ball and kept his hits scattered.

The feature playing of the game was the sensational catches made by the New Salem outfield, which robbed the locals of several hits. Pearsey for the locals made a nose dive catch, and robbed New Salem from a good chance to make a hit.

These two teams will play here next Sunday and each team will use their same line-ups. In case New Salem wins, it will take the third game to decide the series.

AMUSEMENTS

Jack Holt At Princess

Waterloo Station, London one of the largest railroad terminals in the world, is the scene of the opening episodes of the Paramount picture, "A Gentleman of Leisure," starring Jack Holt, which comes to the Princess theatre today and Tuesday.

This introductory scene, quite unusual in motion pictures, presents to the audience the principal players of the production right at the start. This is described by all who have had previews of the picture as a decided novelty. Never before has any production so employed this idea.

In the station, Jack Holt, playing Robert Willoughby Pitt, a young gentleman of wealth and leisure, is seen bidding his friends goodbye. Sir Spencer Deever, nephew of Lord and Lady Blount, whose wish it is to secure for "Spennie" a wealthy wife and thus save them from financial disaster, also are present. But Sir Spencer has ideas of his own and among the chorus girls who have come to see Pitt off to the Etates, Spennie has selected one as his choice for a wife.

It is in this station, also that some of the big scenes in the picture occur, among them Holt's wager that he will catch his train long after the entrance gates have been closed, his stop en-route to participate in a dice game, and finally, his thrilling pursuit and catching of the train near the end of the runaway.

"A Gentleman of Leisure" is a comedy-drama, adapted by John Stapleton and P. G. Wodehouse, Joseph Henabry directed. The supporting cast headed by Sigrid Holmquist is exceptionally strong.

Drama Of Eskimo Life

Of the Eskimo, whose life drama is unfolded in the Pathe feature, "Nanook of the North," showing today and Tuesday at the Mystic theatre, its producer and photographer, Robert J. Flaherty, F. R. G. S., has many interesting things to say in regard to his temperament and disposition.

Mr. Flaherty, and his opinion is corroborated by other explorers familiar with the Eskimo, finds the primitive, nomadic people who live at the top of the world fearless, lovable and happy-go-lucky. He can teach the white man many lessons in patience, kindness, faithfulness and skill.

"Nanook of the North" depicts the dramatic story of an Eskimo family. It was produced by Mr. Flaherty for Revillon Freres in the actual Arctic where the thermometer drops to 54 below and stays there for days and days and where lives a marvelous race free from the influence of civilization.

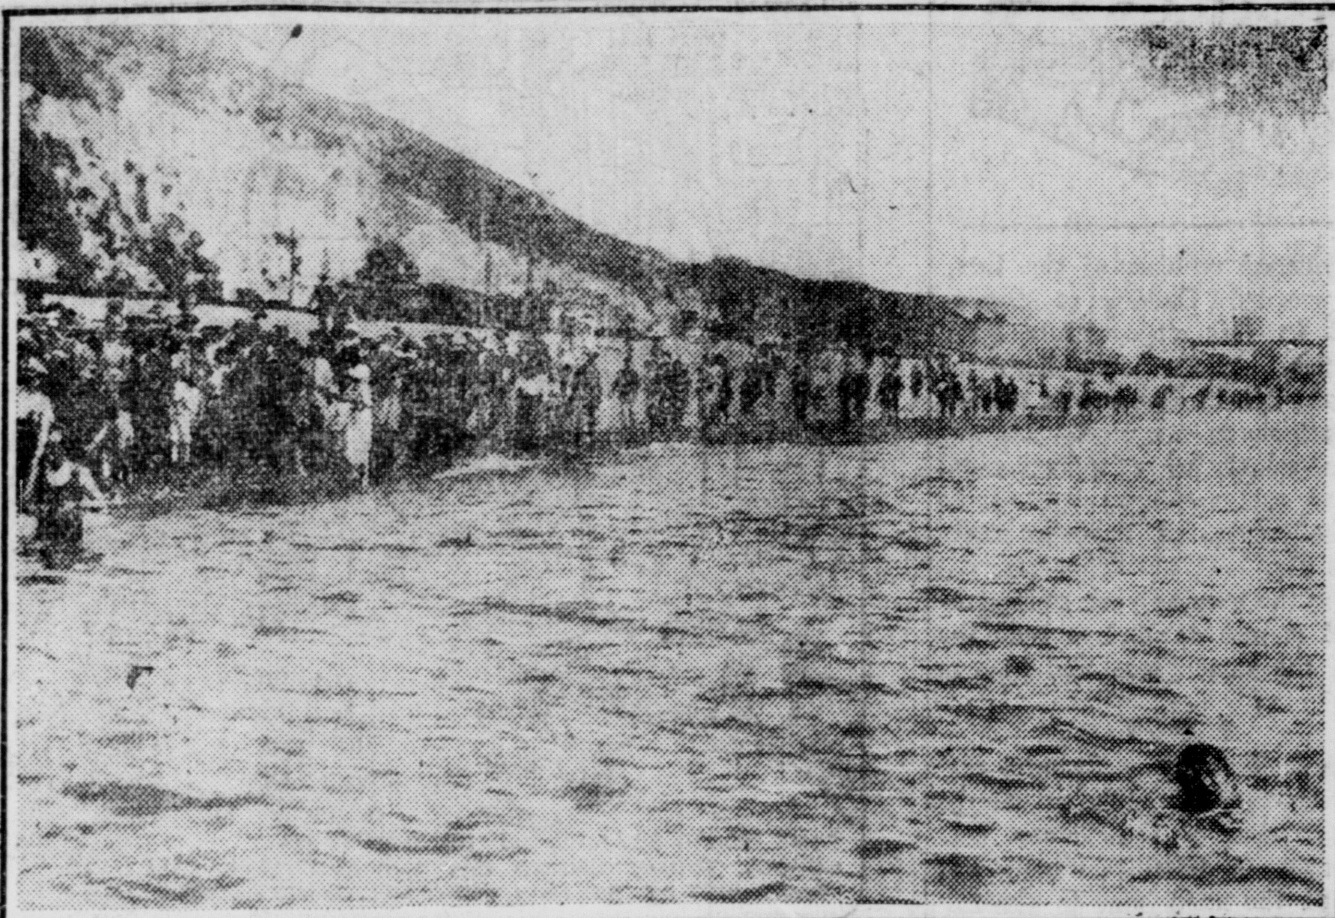

CARBUNCLE REMOVED

Hugh E. Manzy underwent an operation at his home in North Perkins street Saturday night for the removal of a carbuncle on his left leg. The operation was performed by Dr. DelPrew Inlow of the Inlow Clinic, Shelbyville, assisted by Dr. Lowell M. Green, the attending physician. Mr. Manzy has been confined to his home since last Wednesday with an infection on his leg which developed into a carbuncle.

Horsemen's Sportsmanship

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 3.—Much of real sportsmanship was evidenced in the preliminaries leading up to and concluding the negotiations for the great international race between Papyrus, winner of the English Derby and the three-year-old thoroughbred to be selected as the best in the United States.

Suggestion for such a race, that can surely be considered as a world's championship event, was based upon good sportsmanship by the American turf officials, and it was accepted in the same spirit by Benjamin Irish, owner of the British champion and one of the most popular owners on the English track.

Had the race been proposed during the regime of the super-horse, Man o' War, it would have looked like the American sponsors of the idea were prompted by the desire to gain some prestige over the British thoroughbreds by backing a sure thing.

While there are any number of good three-year-olds in training this season, there are none who compare to Man o' War at his age, and when the color-bearer for the United States has to be selected through the means of a special trial race, it is evident that Papyrus will not be forced into the position of a gamester going against stacked cards.

The thoroughbred that is selected to represent the United States will be an animal that, in opinion, more than anything else, is the best runner in this country, and the British invader will not be forced into a contest with a horse that is obviously out of its class, like Man o' War would have been. The race will be over the full derby distance—a mile and a half.

Benjamin Irish could not have been criticized if he had taken the stand that the race should be run in England. He has a champion, and the first instinct of champion owners is to seek the best of everything—at least in professional sports. Those who consider everything from the commercial viewpoint will argue, of course, that no such a purse as $100,000 could be offered in England, and they will point out that a loser's end of $20,000 would induce any owner to take the chance.

The policy of "money first and a sure thing," which rules pugilism and some other professional sports, cannot be applied, of course, to owners of the type and standing of Irish, Harry Payne Whitney, Harry F. Sinclair, R. T. Wilson, J. S. Cadden and the others, who have candidates for the race.

They represent as high a type of citizenship and sportsmanship as can be found in any line of American athletic activity, and no doubt they are inspired just as much by the desire to see a great race as they are by the motive to win the purse.

Vigorous
Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

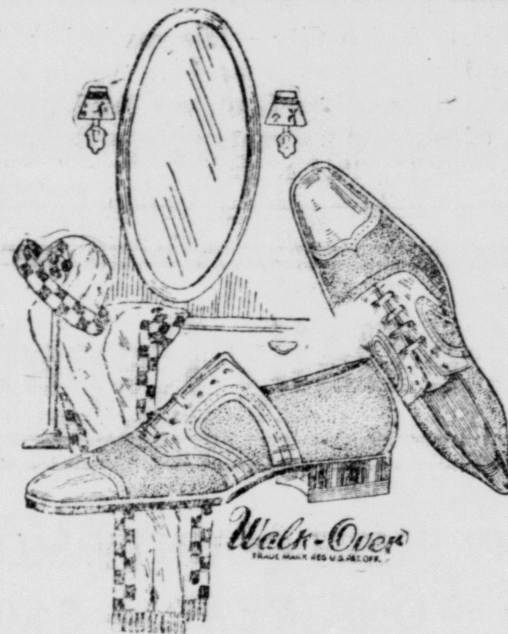

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

en cities by American warships of the Asiatic fleet.

Oaska, Japan, Sept. 3. —More than 200,000 lives now are feared to have been lost in the greatest disaster of Japanese history, when earthquakes, fires and floods destroyed Tokio and Yokohama on Saturday.

One hundred thousand were killed in the capital, according to latest reports by airplane and a like number is believed to have perished in the port city of Yokohama. Government buildings in Tokyo and Yokohama collapsed, killing hundreds but the royal palace was only partly destroyed, according to aviators, and now is sheltering refugees.

Premier Yamamoto, who took office last week and who had not completed his cabinet when the first earth shock began on Sunday, speeded up formation of his ministry.

Aside from the terrible toll of lives, Japan has been set back a generation by the disaster, the Osaka Mainichi says.

The financial loss from the earthquakes which threw down many of the finest modern structures of the capitol, destroyed bridges, tunnels, towers manufacturing plants, banks and residences and from the fires which followed and are still raging beyond control, has been inestimable.

Japan will lose her position as fourth power of the world, according to the Mainichi, because the country has no financial reserve. The largest companies are bankrupt; insurance concerns and many of the strongest banks probably are ruined. The country's manufacturing interests are blasted.

Financially and from the viewpoint of loss of human life, the disaster is considered the greatest in Japan's history.

Part of the royal palace was destroyed by the quakes and the prince regent fled from his house to the Royal shrine where he worshiped while portions of the palace crumbled about him and his house was partially destroyed.

A major portion of the royal palace was saved, however.

(By United Press)

The most terrible disaster of Japanese history, one of the greatest the world has ever known, took an unprecedented toll of life and property in the vicinity of Tokio Saturday with approximately 220,000 known to have been killed by earthquakes, fires and floods and some districts were entirely destroyed with incalculable loss.

Latest reports from Osaka, 200 miles from the capital, to which correspondents are reporting by airplane, and from Peking where official radio messages are being intercepted, show the catastrophe to be far worse than at first believed.

Tokyo, seat of Japan's modern civilization, has been reduced to a collection of scattered villages that still are in flames, while the dead lie heaped in the streets or buried beneath great quantities of debris.

Yokohama is in ruins; tidal waves have carried away part of the city, as well as engulfing many adjoining towns.

One island and a populated peninsula are reported to have disappeared altogether with their inhabitants.

The Japanese nation is declared to have been set back a generation and to have lost its position as the fourth world power, through the calamity to its public buildings, institutions, records and finances.

The new government is struggling to function amid the chaos. Premier Yamamoto formed and established his cabinet during the terror that followed the first shock at noon Saturday.

Shortly afterward he was attacked by an assassin, then the building in which he conferred with his ministers was destroyed by flames. Various reports say the prince regent, who fled from his house in the imperial palace when the shock came, is safe; others have him missing.

Relief is being rushed to the stricken.

COUNTY GRAVEL ROAD REPAIR TAX REDUCED

Commissioners Cut Levy For Next Year From Twelve To Eleven
Cents Today

APPROVE R. H. HILL'S BOND

The county commissioners, at their regular monthly session today, fixed the county gravel road repair tax at eleven cents for 1924, which is a reduction of one cent as compared with this year.

The county council will meet in annual session Tuesday to appropriate money for funds in 1924 and to fix the county tax and the gravel road bond and interest tax levy in each township. No flood bond tax will be assessed this year as the last of the flood bonds will be paid off this year. It is expected that the county tax, which is sixteen cents this year, will be reduced.

The commissioners today approved the bond of R. H. Hill, state senator, of Carthage, which he gave as a constable of the Horse Thief Detective association, the commissioners having recently ruled that constables should provide bonds.

The board also approved the monthly bills and approved the report of the viewers which was favorable to the vacation of the W. D. Rgot road in southern Rushville township. The report of the superintendent of the county infirmary was received.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Wireless dispatches received by the radio corporation of America gave additional details of the Japanese disaster.

A railroad man reached the Iwaki railroad station from Tokio and reported that there were 100,000 dead in the capital alone.

An aviator from Tokoro-Sawa air-dome flew over the devastated area and found that not a house remained standing in Yokohama, Kamakura, Yoko Suka and other coast towns. Kamakura was a popular seaside resort.

New Jap Cabinet Formed

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 3.—Premier Yamamoto has formed his new cabinet, according to a wireless dispatch from Japan received by the radio corporation of America today.

The new cabinet follows: Premier of foreign affairs, Count Gombi Yamamoto; home minister, Shunpei Goto; finance, Junnosuke Ineueyex, governor of the bank of Japan; war, General Barron Gecchi Panaka; agriculture and commerce, Baron Kenji Den, member of the legislative body; naval, Admiral Hayo Takabara, who held the same post when the cabinet was reorganized.

Earth Tremors Recorded

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Two very sharp earthquake tremors, apparently about 3,000 miles west of here, were recorded at 4:45 and 4:57 today on the St. Louis seismograph. The tremors started at 4:43 a. m. central standard time and continued until 5:20 a. m.

No News From Legations

Pekin, Sept. 3. —(12 noon)—The foreign legations here are still without news of the fate of European and American legations at Tokyo and eight American destroyers have been sent to carry medical relief and establish a chain of wireless communication with the stricken cities.

DULL, DRIZZLING RAIN WELCOMES FAIR CROWD

Morning Downpour Cuts Attendance
And Spoils Hopes Of Official
Record First Day

NO RAIN INSURANCE TAKEN

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3. —A dull drizzling rain welcomed state fair visitors today.

Under a sea of bobbing umbrellas, the more eager fairgoers pushed through the turnstiles. Fair officials hoped for a record first-day attendance, but the morning downpour cut the attendance heavily.

Last year, the board paid out large sums of money for rain insurance. But, although it rained on several days nothing was collected because the rain fell during hours when the insurance did not apply.

This year, the fair management decided to carry its own risk on rain.

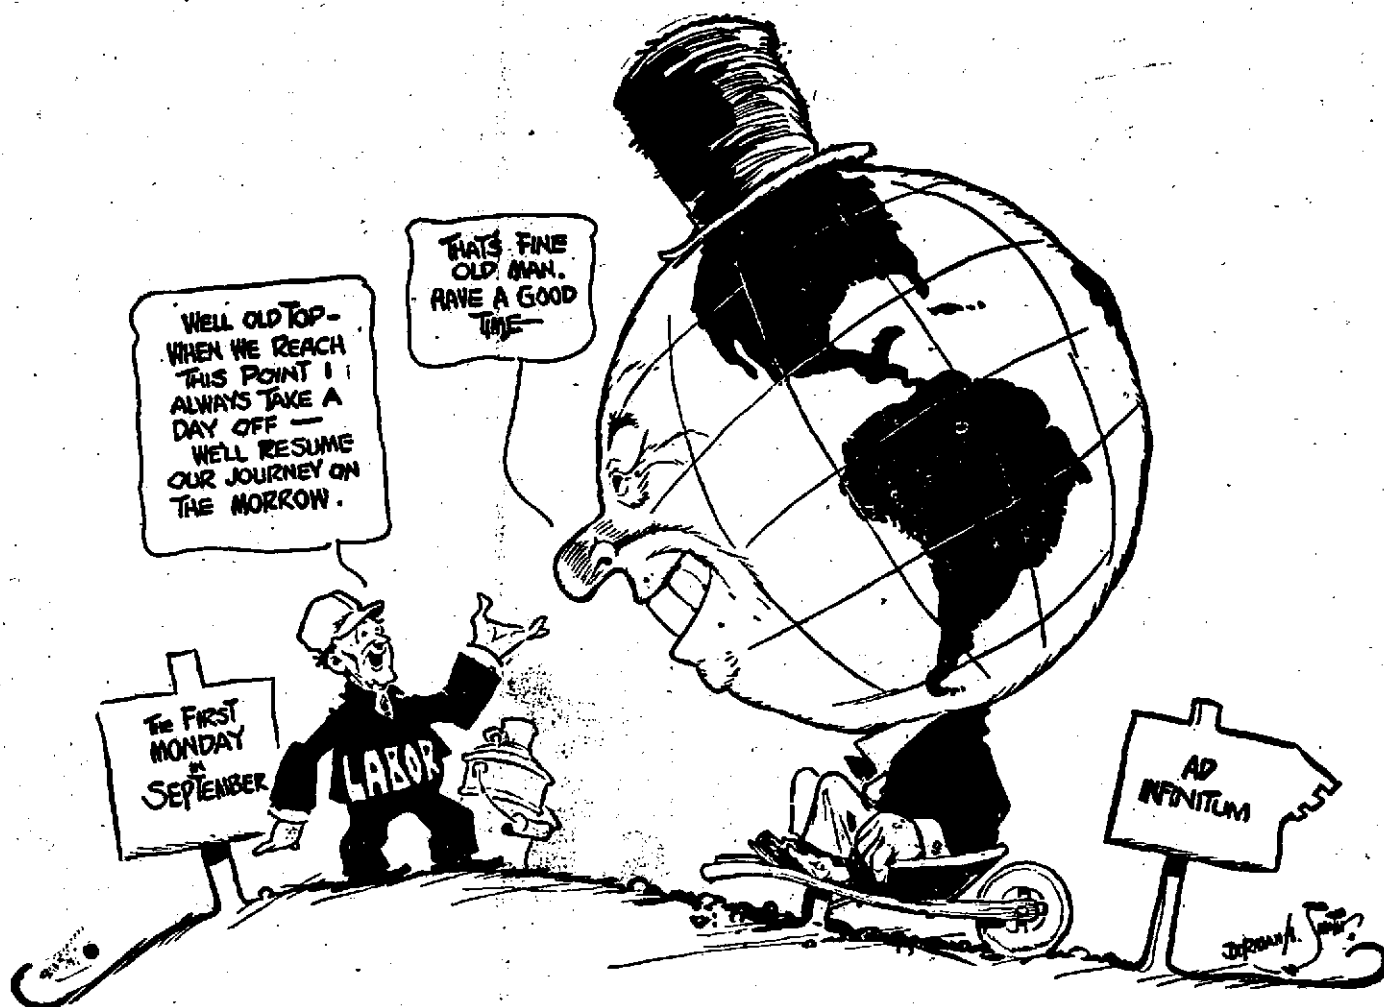

The fair was officially opened at 9 o'clock. Judges immediately started their task of looking over the entries of poultry, cattle, hogs, corn, wheat, and all kinds of agricultural products.

Exhibits in the new $102,000 swine pavilion attracted many. The hog exhibits this year are the largest in the history of the fair.

TRIAL IS SET FOR TUESDAY

Several Law Suits Are Dismissed
On Account Of Settlements Have Been Reached By Parties

Circuit court opened for business this morning for the September term and the usual calling of the dockets and discussing the issues, was the principal business for the first day. Tuesday the jury will be on hand for its first case, in which Oren Snider is charged with grand larceny.

No other business came before the court today excepting the docket cases, and only a couple of hours was required to make out the issues.

Morton Barber of Carthage, accused with malicious trespass, whose trial is this week, filed a motion to quash the indictment and a similar motion was made by Rose C. Small also of Carthage, who is charged with violating the liquor laws, and whose case is set for next Monday.

No action was taken by the court on the two motions. Some of the defendants in criminal cases appeared this morning and furnished new bonds, but no one was arraigned for a plea.

Several cases were dismissed from the docket, when it was being gone over by the court, and in other cases there were many minor petitions and answers filed.

The case of Eliza J. Myers against John Myers, a complaint for divorce, was dismissed because the parties are now residing with each other; the divorce suit of Ada White against Alvin White, also was dismissed and the costs paid.

The complaint of J. L. Cowing, Son and Company against John Wilkinson, a complaint on an account, also was dismissed by the plaintiff, and the costs paid.

BANK ASKS THAT A RECEIVER BE NAMED

Peoples National Sues Jonathan F.
And Claudean Fore For $13,500
On A Note

TO FORECLOSE A MORTGAGE

The Peoples National bank, which has been involved as defendants in recent law suits, is plaintiff in a suit filed in the circuit court against Jonathan F. Fore and Claudean Fore, in which the bank demands $13,500 judgment, and asks that a mortgage be foreclosed and a receiver appointed for the defendants.

According to the complaint, the defendant executed their promissory note for the amount of $11,659 on October 31, 1922, and as security gave a mortgage on a farm. The bank alleges that the note and interest became due six months after date, and that it is wholly unpaid.

The bank in its complaint alleges further that the defendants real estate is valued at $18,000 and that there are other notes outstanding, which exceed the amount of the value of the land.

Because of the complicated condition alleged to be involved in the transaction, the plaintiff asks the court to appoint a receiver to manage the affairs, and to give the creditors justice in settling the various claims.

On account of the principal, interest, attorney fees and costs, the bank demands judgment for the amount of $13,500.

PRESENT PLAN TO BOND CONSTABLES

Will H. McMillin, Head Of Horse ranges For Bonding Co.

TO PROVIDE BONDS AT $2.50

Members Will Be Notified When
Bonding House Man Can Be Here
—Plans For Kid Supper

Arrangements have been made with a New York bonding house to provide bonds by the wholesale for members of the Rush County Horse Thief Detective association who have been appointed constables by the Rush county board of commissioners and who are required to provide bond of $1,000 each under a ruling of the board, which refused to appoint several members recommended for appointment, a few months ago because they did not give bond.

Will H. McMillin, head of the Rush county association, announced at the regular monthly meeting of the association in the court house Saturday night, that such plans had been made and that a representative of the bonding house would come here and arrange for the bonds at a meeting of the association.

Mr. McMillin stated that the bonding company had agreed to make a special rate of $2.50 for each bond of $1,000, providing the company could write the bonds in whole-sale lots and look to the association for the money. In other words, the association will collect the bond charge from all members who wish to give bond to act as a constable and will pay the bonding company in a lump sum.

Mr. McMillin said that he would probably send return postal cards to all members of the association to learn how many wished to pay the fee of $2.50 for a bond of $1,000.

This does not restrict any member of the association from giving a bond signed by individuals or one provided by some other company. All bonds, however, have to be approved by the commissioners.

The question was raised by Frank Sample, secretary of the association as to whether members could continue to act as constables if they did not give bond, but the association took no action on it. Mr. Sample said that he understood the commissioners could revoke the appointment of any constable if they saw fit.

One member of the association also raised the question of whether constables could not collect fees which the law provides when arrests are made, after they had given bond.

A committee composed of Hal Green, Will McMillin and Frank

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3. —Plans are under way for a statewide observance of Constitution Day, September 17, which is the 136th anniversary of the completion of the Constitution of the United States. Arrangements are being made by local officials throughout the state.

"No patriotic anniversary more deserves an appropriate and general observance than does Constitution Day," said Governor McCray, in announcing he will call upon all people of Indiana to pay a proper tribute to the Constitution. The Indiana Republican State Committee also has urged county Republican organizations to join in local programs, and in some communities the day will be marked as a tribute to Warren G. Harding, who was a great constitutionalist. Frederick E. Short, emcee, in a letter to Governor McCray suggesting general observance of the day, said: "I have learned to know you as an ardent advocate of Constitutional government and I therefore, suggest that in an appropriate way you call upon all of the people of Indiana to pay proper tribute to the immortal Constitution on the anniversary of its completion. It would be a matter of heartfelt gratitude to me if the observance could be statewide, without regard to political affiliation, to the end that the flag might be displayed and that our citizens might

ANSWER TWO ALARMS SUNDAY

Firemen Respond To Calls But Are Unable To Find Any Fires

Firemen answered two alarms Sunday and in each instance the alarms proved to be false. They first were called out Sunday morning at 12:03 to box 142, Eighth and Jackson streets, and then again Sunday night at 11:15 to box 27, located in Cherry Grove on Maple street. The trucks arrived on the scene in quick time, but in each instance there was no one around the box to direct them to the blaze.

An automobile was seen to stop near the box in Cherry Grove last night, and it is believed that joyriders are responsible for the runs.

The tri-state meeting of the Ku Klux Klan was getting off to a good start this afternoon, as thousands of Klansmen from sections of Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana were gathering on the old fair grounds, east of this city, to participate in the Labor Day celebration.

The crowd was undaunted by the heavy downpour of rain that began early this morning, and as the skies cleared before noon, the crowd began to increase, and no estimate on the crowd was forthcoming this afternoon.

The local officials had placed the goal at 100,000 or more Klansmen and their families and member of the woman's organization, but the rain no doubt prevented many from coming and would lessen the crowd that was expected.

A program of vaudeville acts was scheduled tonight, and for this reason, it was believed that the parade that had been announced, would not be held, although the committee in charge had secured permission to use the streets for that purpose.

It was stated that the parade would detract from the entertainment and cause a congestion in coming and returning to the fair grounds for the evening program.

"The Old Man" was scheduled to make a speech this afternoon, and it was stated that he was to reach this city from a distant point by using an airplane. "The Old Man", it is inferred, is one of the higher executives of the order, and local officials stated that there would be other state officers here for addresses.

Among the officers higher up in the organization was the chief executive.

JUGO-SLAVIA MAY TAKE HAND IN MOVES

Inform Greek Government She Will Act if Italy Mobilizes Military Forces

IS IN TOUCH WITH ATHENS

Athens, Sept. 3.—Italian warships are laying a mine field around the Dodecanese islands, according to an unconfirmed report today. Concentration of Italian troops also is reported on Leros, largest of the group.

Constantinople, Sept. 3.—Italian torpedo boats at Smyrna have received orders to join the Italian Adriatic fleet immediately.

Athens, Sept. 3.—Jugo-Slavia will take "designated measures" in the event Italy orders mobilization of her military forces or lands troops at Epirus, Belgrade has informed the Greek government, it was made known today.

Belgrade and Athens are in constant touch regarding the Italian moves in the embroglio precipitated by the assassination of five Italian officials in Greece and the Greek refusal to submit to all conditions of Premier Mussolini's ultimatum.

Jugo-Slavia will regard Italian attempts to permanently occupy Corfu, key to the Adriatic, as an invasion of Jugo-Slavia rights, it is understood, as such occupation would amount to bottling up the leading member of the little entente.

NEGRO PROBLEM AT ST. LOUIS

That City, as Well as Others, Are Seeking Solution of Its New Negro Immigrants

EXODUS FROM SOUTHLAND

St. Louis Reports 30,000 Settlers in Past Eight Months, Many of Whom Are Penniless

To Keep Negroes South

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 3.—The National Progressive Association of Negroes, designed to help the cotton and lumber industries by keeping the negro in the gulf states through higher wages, better working conditions, reducing hours of work and supplying sanitation and improved homes, has been granted a corporate charter here.

Headquarters of the society are in New Orleans. Negroes of Louisiana are being sought in membership, after which the movement will be extended to other Gulf states, it is successful. Sickness and death benefits are provided. The charter provides that the organization cannot become a labor union and that it cannot interfere with labor organization.

By HERBERT LITTLE (C. P. Staff Correspondent)

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Thirty thousand negroes, settling in St. Louis in the first eight months of 1923, have brought the city face to face with two big problems—that of housing the newcomers and that of halting the invasion of disease.

The menace of disease is being fought by a score of policemen and a special corps meeting every incoming train. Both whites and blacks are vaccinated, unless they already are immunized. Seventeen cases of smallpox in June and July gave the alarm.

Housing is more difficult. There are no new homes being built for the negroes. The 1920 census gave St. Louis a negro population of 70,000 and there were barely enough buildings to house them then.

ported that as many as 12 negroes have been found living in a house intended for one small family.

Landlords are unwilling to make repairs at present high prices of construction. Responsibility for unsanitary conditions rests both upon the landlords and the new arrivals, most of whom are unaccustomed to city living conditions.

Two other problems in connection with the negro from the south have the city leaders worried. One is that of continuing harmonious relations between the two races and the other is the result on the city's political life.

The administration of the city now is Republican and the estimated 15,000 added voters will serve only to strengthen the G. O. P. There were 30,000 negro voters in the last election here, practically all Republicans.

Formation of an inter-racial commission, composed of five whites and five colored men to work out ways of avoiding friction between the two races and to find ways of housing the surplus of colored population, is being urged by leaders in racial affairs. Such a commission in Philadelphia, composed of persons elected by a conference of all civic groups, has operated successfully in adjusting the city to the new negro.

"We are seeking to do in St. Louis in advance of any racial trouble what other large cities, particularly Chicago, have found necessary to do after such trouble," said C. K. Robinson, president of the St. Louis Clarion, leading negro newspaper.

"We know that the housing situation is acute. The negro must find additional residential space. It will be one of the tasks of the commission to determine where the negro can go without causing friction."

Rents in the negro tenement district have mounted from 20 to 40 per cent, according to colored real estate agents.

The negroes who come to St. Louis are from Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas. About 80 percent of them settle here or in the surrounding industrial district. The other 20 percent, along with a large number of St. Louis negroes, are moving to steel mills in Youngstown, Ohio; Pittsburgh and Chicago, and automobile factories in Michigan.

Migration into and through here in January was from 200 to 300 a week. It has reached a weekly peak of 2,000.

Most of the negroes are penniless. The biggest factor in the exodus is the high wages offered by industrial plants through labor agencies.

A significant feature of the migration is that a large proportion of the negroes are between 17 and 19 years of age. Many of them are younger boys.

Most of the negroes "tote" their total possessions in a paper bundle. A few carry cheap pasteboard suitcases. Extra numbers of arrivals every Sunday are explained by the fact that the men wait until the end of the week, so they can draw as much of a week's pay as possible for their railroad fare.

"The negroes are going as far north as Duluth," said Matthew Dally, U. S. government farm bureau agent. "Negroes fresh from the south are getting $6 a day in the Duluth and Superior steel mills and in Milwaukee.

"The sort that go far north, however, take their families. Underneath the movement, aside from the certainty of higher pay, seems to be the fact that there is less race feeling in northern cities where negro children attend school with the whites and where white men and negroes in industry work side by side."

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Northern industrial cities registered huge gains in negro population from 1910 to 1920, according to census figures, and this year's migration is expected to double the colored urban population of the north before the end of the year.

In the decade, 1910-1920, St. Louis' increase was 58 percent; Chicago, 148 percent; Kansas City, 30 percent; Pittsburgh, 47 percent; Gary, Ind., 1,284 percent. St. Louis' increased in the first eight months of 1923 was estimated at 30,000, or 45 percent.

A. J. Michael, employment agent, declared that the negroes and Mexicans are the only kinds of labor available now.

"It is a never-ending cry," he said. "We ship the negroes east for railroad work, the steel mill agents lure them away with the lure of higher pay. Hard road construction is taking thousands."

St. Louis steel mills offer $5 to $6 a day. Pittsburgh steel mills promised $8 a day for twelve hours' work. The big eastern railroads are taking hundreds at 40 to 50 cents an hour. Brickyards, scrap-iron men and others are hiring Mexicans and negroes for work in the sun, where no other race can stand the heat.

A report of the Missouri Negro Industrial Commission pointed out that for every 100 deaths among city negroes, there were only 104 births. For every 100 deaths in the rural districts over the country, there are 150 births, according to the last census.

entive of the Woman's organization, who was scheduled to be here this afternoon and make an address.

The Rush county orders acted as host today and served a bountiful dinner at the noon hour to the guests. The women were active in serving and donations of chickens, cakes and other foods were made, besides several thousand pounds of meat were purchased by the Klan.

Ice cream plants and bakeries were operated over time Sunday in an effort to place the large quantities on hand for this morning. More than one hundred thousand ice cream cones was expected to be served today.

The traffic through Rushville was at no time congested this morning, and police handled the crowds well. Two extra traffic officers were placed on duty.

Police Chief Blackburn stated that he did not expect any trouble of any kind, and up until this afternoon no disorder, or accidents had been reported.

Hooded Klansmen stood at Second and Perkins and Morgan and Second streets to direct visitors to the grounds. Between one and two o'clock this afternoon automobiles were lined up from the city to the grounds. Klansmen stood along the route and directed traffic.

The I. & C. ran shuttle trains to the grounds, but did not have much business as most of the visiting people came in automobiles. Machines were parked at the west end of the fair grounds. The field engaged for parking space was so muddy that cars could not be driven into it without miring down.

WRITERS FAVOR AIR CONFERENCE

Leaders in Field of Literature Sano-tion American Legion's Campaign For World Meet

TO LIMIT AIRCRAFT BUILDING

Julian Street is Only Author Opposed to The Proposal—Booth Tarkington Approves

Indianapolis, Sept. 3.—Leaders in the field of literature have approved the American Legion's campaign for the convocation of an international air disarmament conference, Legion officials announced today.

Booth Tarkington, Hoosier novelist, was one of the first to approve the conference. "Since it was proper to limit naval armament, it is just as necessary to limit air armament—the source from which greatest destruction in the next war may come," he said.

Limitation of air armament would not satisfy Zona Gale, the novelist, who has written that she favors total abolition of all military air equipment.

"Nothing but fear prompts the maintenance of armament at all," she said. "If the United States had the courage to say 'We are done with defensive barbarism,' we might lead the world."

"Five hundred years from now, no achievement of any nation on earth, down all time, will compare for a moment with that of the nation which had the courage to declare itself done with warfare."

"And unless we are done with warfare, five hundred years from now there will be no nation left to record our ruin."

Julian Street registered opposition to the proposal. He believes that American limitation of air forces would result in this country falling even further behind in air development, while other nations would continue to build planes.

In the event of another war, these would be used regardless of international agreements, he said.

PRESENT PLAN TO BOND CONSTABLES

Sample was elected to arrange for the annual kid supper of the association, which is held every fall. Some doubt was expressed as to whether a place could be found to accommodate such a crowd, as there are now 356 members in good standing and the attendance at such a supper would probably be near 700. The question of a place and date was left to the committee.

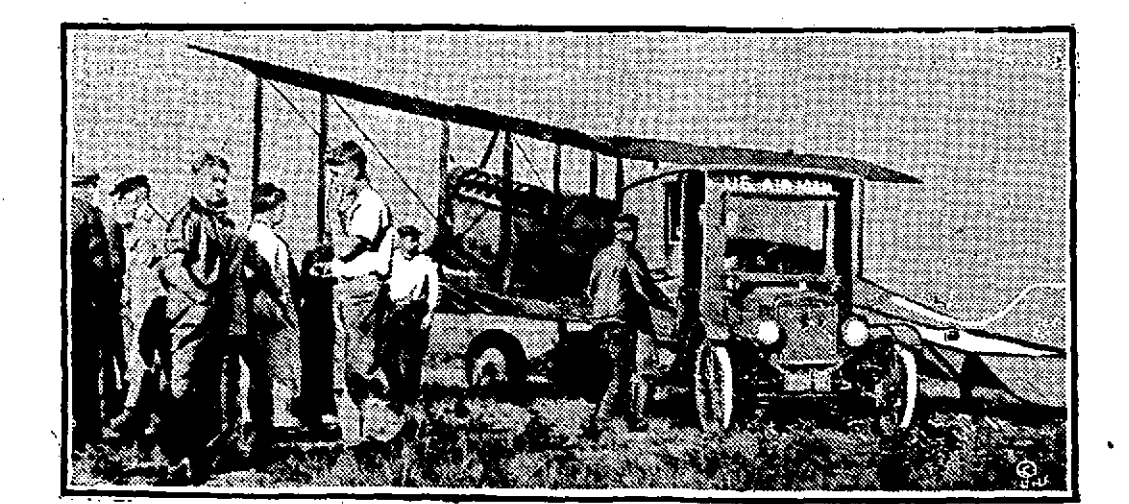

Will McMillin was elected delegate and Frank Sample alternate to the annual meeting of the National Horse Thief Detective association, which will be held at Columbus, Ind., Tuesday, October 2. A large attendance from the Rush county association was urged.

The secretary read a letter from Theodore F. Holden, secretary of the New Salem Horse Thief Detective association, inviting local members to a sandwich supper at the New Salem school building Thursday evening, September 17. The speaker will be Col. A. F. Ewhank of Adams, Ind.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following couples were granted marriage licenses at the county clerk's office on Saturday: Charles Rhodes, a farmer of this county, and Thelma Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. BE SURE YOU ARE RIGHT:
—There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.—Proverbs
14: 12.Stands For Protection

President Coolidge made it plain soon after his induction into office that he would stand by the policies of the Harding administration, which had stood for a return to normalcy, and the country settled back on its seat with a feeling of relief because business was fearful that any radical change in the attitude of the chief executive might result in a fearful setback.

The president's acts and words during the month that he has been in office have demonstrated further that he expects to follow the course outlined by President Harding. The president has assured the country specifically that he will support the principle of a protective tariff. He has been a life long believer in the "America First" policy. He believes in encouraging American industry and protecting the producer from unjust competition from other nations in which wages and production costs are much lower than in the United States.

Recognizing that there are unsettled conditions throughout most of the world and particularly in Europe, the congress which passed the present tariff law included therein what is known as the "flexibility clause" which authorizes the president, after investigation by the tariff commission, to make changes in tariff rates not exceeding fifty per cent in either direction, when good cause has been shown why the changes should be made. Exponents of the free trade principle looked upon this flexibility provision as designed solely for the purpose of reducing tariffs. Scarcely had the act been placed upon the statute books when they began clamoring for executive action for the reduction of rates. Without any regard whatever for the reasonableness of the import duties imposed and without any consideration of the effect upon American industries, these free-trade agitators wanted a wholesale exercise of the executive power for the reduction of protective tariff duties.

President Harding did not look upon the flexibility clause as bestowing upon him such broad power over the tariff law. He regarded the tariff act as establishing not only the tariff principles which should be observed but the details of import taxes, changeable only where extraordinary circumstances called for action. He did not regard it as his prerogative to undertake a wholesale revision of a tariff law enacted by that branch of the government which the Constitution prescribes shall have the power to enact revenue legislation. It is read-

Dizzy Spells Due To Undigested Food

"Dizziness and faintness after eating show that your food is not digested and is turning into poison and gas. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adierika, expels all poison and gas from BOTH upper and lower bowel. Removes foul, decaying food matter you never thought was in your system which poisoned stomach and made you dizzy and faint. Adierika is EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. Hargrove & Mullin, Druggists.—Advertisements.

ily apparent that President Coolidge takes a similar view.

One clever device of the free traders has been to assume that every move in favor of protection is inspired by politics while every move in the direction of abandonment of protection is actuated by regard for the public welfare. Thus, one periodical, which has an unbroken record against a protective tariff, cites the fact that importers ask for the reduction of the duty on lemons and asserts that "opposition on the part of California fruit growers to any reduction in the duty on lemons has injected a political element into this proposal." As a matter of fact, it did not inject. The sole question is whether the California lemon growers shall be subjected to destructive competition from abroad.

The same free trade propagandist insists that President Coolidge should give carte blanche to the tariff commission which would mean that he abdicate his authority and shirk his responsibility under the flexibility clause of the tariff law. That law did not vest the tariff commission with power to act in the changing of rates. It placed that responsibility solely upon the president, merely requiring the tariff commission to make investigations as to facts.

Oh, Cheops was a Pharaoh who built a pyramid
(Or rather, stole the credit for what his workmen did.
The carpenters and masons, and other men of skill,
Who built the pyramids so well that they are standing still.)

Nebuchadnezzar had a queen—a queen in Babylon,
And she grew weary of the plains her vision rested on.
"Oh, give me hills to gaze upon," she whispered to the king;
Nebuchadnezzar answered her, "I'll do that little thing."

Upon tremendous arches that clamored to the sky
He laid out hanging gardens to glad his consort's eye.
(Nebuchadnezzar built them—or thus the stories read,
But it was cunning workmen who really did the deed.)

The sultans and the emperors, since history began,
Have given little credit to the common workman,
And yet their tombs and palaces, their temples and their halls,
Were built by common workmen in grimy overalls.

We aim to get no credit that isn't rightly ours,
We hand it to the architects who plan the lofty towers,
We slip it to the engineers who use their hands and brain
Designing bridges, ships and tools that stand each stress and strain.

But granite doesn't carve itself, and steel won't jump in place,
And tools don't simply operate by some magical grace.
No, that's where we collaborate, and we desire to claim
An honest share of glory for the doing of the same!

PITCHES NO-HIT AND NO-RUN GAME

"Red" Yazel Back In Old-Time Form: When He Defeats New Salem Here Sunday

LOCAL TEAM PLAYS GOOD BALL

"Red" Yazel appeared back in old league style Sunday when he pitched the Rushville baseball club to a no-hit and no-run game over New Salem, and in which Rushville came out with four points, after collecting 9 hits off Croddy.

The local team played good ball at all times, and in one inning bunched hits and made three of their tallies. Croddy pitched good ball and kept his hits scattered.

The feature playing of the game was the sensational catches made by the New Salem outfield, which robbed the locals of several hits. Pearsey for the locals made a nose dive catch, and robbed New Salem from a good chance to make a hit.

These two teams will ply here next Sunday and each team will use their same line-ups. In case New Salem wins, it will take the third game to decide the series.

AMUSEMENTS

Jack Holt At Princess

This introductory scene, quite unusual in motion pictures, presents to the audience the principal players of the production right at the start.

This is described by all who have had previews of the picture as a decided novelty. Never before has any production so employed this idea.

Sir Spencer Deever, nephew of Lord and Lady Blount, whose wish it is to secure for "Spennie" a wealthy wife and thus save them from financial disaster, also are present.

But Sir Spencer has ideas of his own and among the chorus girls who have come to see Pitt off to the Elites, Spennie has selected one as his choice for a wife.

It is in this station, also that some of the big scenes in the picture occur, among them Holt's wager that he will catch his train long after the entrance gates have been closed,—his stop en-route to participate in a dice game, and finally, his thrilling pursuit and catching of the train near the end of the runaway.

"A Gentleman of Leisure" is a comedy-drama, adapted by John Stapleton and P. G. Wodehouse, Joseph Henabery directed. The supporting cast headed by Sigrid Holmquist is exceptionally strong.

Drama Of Eskimo Life

Of the Eskimo, whose life drama is unfolded in the Pathe feature, "Nauook of the North," showing today and Tuesday at the Mystic theatre, its producer and photographer, Robert J. Flaherty, F. R. G. S., has many interesting things to say in regard to his temperament and disposition.

Mr. Flaherty, and his opinion is corroborated by other explorers familiar with the Eskimo, finds the primitive, nomadic people who live at the top of the world fearless, lovable and happy-go-lucky. He can teach the white man many lessons in patience, kindness, faithfulness and skill.

"Nauook of the North" depicts the dramatic story of an Eskimo family. It was produced by Mr. Flaherty for Revillon Freres in the actual Arctic where the thermometer drops to 54 below and stays there for days and days and where lives a marvelous race free from the influence of civilization.

PANNING WITH ARRELL

Horsemen's Sportsmanship

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 3.—Much of real sportsmanship was evidenced in the preliminaries leading up to and concluding the negotiations for the great international race between Papyrus, winner of the English Derby and the three-year-old thoroughbred to be selected as the best in the United States.

Suggestion for such a race, that can surely be considered as a world's championship event, was based upon good sportsmanship by the American turf officials, and it was accepted in the same spirit by Benjamin Irish, owner of the British champion and one of the most popular owners on the English track.

Had the race been proposed during the regime of the super-horse, Man o' War, it would have looked like the color-bearer for the United States has to be selected through the means of a special trial race, it is evident that Papyrus will not be forced into the position of a gamester going against stacked cards.

The thoroughbred that is selected to represent the United States will be an animal that, in opinion, more than anything else, is the best runner in this country, and the British invader will not be forced into a contest with a horse that is obviously out of its class, like Man o' War would have been. The race will be over the full derby distance—a mile and a half.

Benjamin Irish could not have been criticized if he had taken the stand that the race should be run in England. He has a champion, and the first instinct of champion owners is to seek the best of everything—at least in professional sports. Those who consider everything from the commercial viewpoint will argue, of course, that no such a purse, as $100,000 could be offered in England, and they will point out that a loser's end of $20,000 would induce any owner to take the changes.

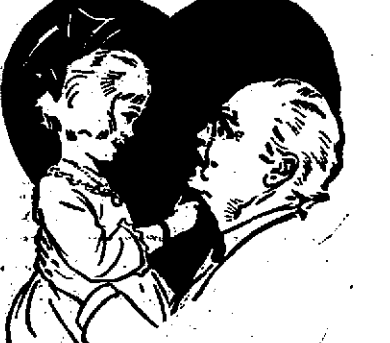

The policy of "money first and a sure thing," which rules pugilism and some other professional sports, cannot be applied, of course, to owners of the type and standing of Irish, Harry Payne Whitney, Harry F. Sinclair, R. T. Wilson, J. S. Couden and the others, who have candidates for the race.

They represent as high a type of citizenship and sportsmanship as can be found in any line of American athletic activity, and no doubt they are inspired just as much by the desire to see a great race as they are by the motive to win the purse.

Fall Model

Each advance fall model seems slinkier than ever. There remains, however, the silhouette that is still narrow and yet billows out in the new skirt flounces about one's ankles. Side fastenings and side pleats are still fashionable.

Franklin.—Johnson county's corn crop is expected to make an average yield of 40 bushels to the acre. The acreage in the county is approximately 53,000.

Marion.—Ione Pattison was refused the privilege of going to the grocery or church, she alleges in her divorce complaint.

Earthquake, Fire and Flood Toll Mounts to Over 200,000

Oaska, Japan, Sept. 3. —More than 200,000 lives now are feared to have been lost in the greatest disaster of Japanese history, when earthquakes, fires and floods destroyed Tokyo and Yokohama on Saturday.

One hundred thousand were killed in the capital, according to latest reports by airplane and a like number is believed to have perished in the port city of Yokohama.

Government buildings in Tokyo and Yokohama collapsed, killing hundreds but the royal palace was only partly destroyed, according to aviators, and now is sheltering refugees.

Premier Yamamoto, who took office last week and who had not completed his cabinet when the first earth shock began on Sunday, speeded up formation of his ministry.

Aside from the terrible toll of lives, Japan has been set back a generation by the disaster, the Osaka Mainichi says.

The financial loss from the earthquakes which threw down many of the finest modern structures of the capitol, destroyed bridges, tunnels towers manufacturing plants, banks and residences and from the fires which followed and are still raging beyond control, has been inestimable.

Japan will lose her position as fourth power of the world, according to the Mainichi, because the country has no financial reserve. The largest companies are bankrupt; insurance concerns and many of the strongest banks probably are ruined. The country's manufacturing interests are blasted.

Financially and from the viewpoint of loss of human life, the disaster is considered the greatest in Japan's history.

Part of the royal palace was destroyed by the quakes and the prince regent fled from his house to the Royal shrine where he worshiped while portions of the palace crumbled about him and his house was partially destroyed.

A major portion of the royal palace was saved, however.
